KEYNOTE PANEL

Don Paradis was a member of the Gypsy Jokers motorcycle gang when he stopped a fight between two bikers at his house in Spokane, Washington, back in 1980. One of those bikers later turned up dead in Paradis' house, and his girlfriend's dead body was found across the border in Idaho. After Paradis was acquitted of the biker's murder in Washington, the State of Idaho tried him for the murder of the girlfriend on the theory that she was still alive when she was taken to Idaho. He was sentenced to death for a crime he didn't commit, didn't attempt, and had nothing to do with. Three times he signed his own death warrant, coming within 48 hours of his execution. After more than 20 years in prison, he was finally able to win his release with the help of Edwin Matthews, whose law firm represented him pro bono in his post conviction proceedings.

William Nieves was convicted and sentenced for a murder he did not commit. Although numerous witnesses, including an eyewitness who was a personal friend of the victim, flatly ruled him out as the killer, the police and prosecutors in Philadelphia successfully hid this evidence from Nieves and his lawyer, who the Pennsylvania Supreme Court found was incompetent for other reasons. Once the concealed eyewitness evidence came to light at the retrial, Nieves was finally acquitted after being incarcerated for 10 years despite his innocence.

Michael Cervi is the son of a Sheriff's Detective who found himself arrested in Iowa in March, 1977, for a murder which occurred in Georgia two days before. He spent three years in a Georgia jail awaiting trial before he was convicted of robbery, kidnapping and murder in May, 1980, receiving a separate death sentence for each crime. After the Georgia appellate courts cut it to a single death sentence for the murder charge, he turned to the federal courts. With the help of George Kendall, the 11th Circuit overturned his death sentence in 1989 because his confession was unlawfully obtained in violation of his Fifth Amendment rights. The next year he pled guilty as charged in a settlement which saw him gain his freedom in 1992 after serving 15 years in custody.

These men can describe the truth of life and death in prison like nobody else. Their triumphs of life over death are not only heroic and inspirational, but remind us of why capital defense is so important to our clients, our constitution, and ourselves.

POO3 CAPITAL CASE DEFENSE SEMINAR

Our Clients, Our Constitution, Ourselves

The Capital Case Defense Seminar

California Attorneys for Criminal Justice (CACJ) and the California Public Defenders' Association (CPDA) are pleased to invite you to participate in the 2003 Capital Case Defense Seminar (CCDS). CCDS is an intensive education opportunity for anyone involved in, or considering taking on , the defense of a capital case. It is designed not only for lawyers, but also for sentencing consultants, paralegals, investigators, and experts working in capital defense.

The CACJ/CPDA Capital Case Defense Seminar is the largest of its kind in the nation. CCDS is unique in that it offers lectures as well as specialized workshops that give participants the chance to brainstorm and exchange information with other participants. Experienced practitioners in any jurisdiction and those just entering the field can benefit from the lectures and workshops featuring experienced lawyers and experts, from both California and across the nation.

CACJ and CPDA are also offering a 15% discount to first-time Capital Case Defense Seminar participants. If you will be taking advantage of this discount, your registration cannot be processed unless you enclose a signed statement attesting to your first-timer status.

Participants cannot combine discounts.

Law students who volunteer for this seminar may be eligible for seminar tuition assistance.

At-Door Registration

Those not prepaid by February 3, 2003 at 5:00 pm must register at the door and will be charged an additional $25. At-door registration begins at 2:00 pm on Friday, February 14, and again at 7:00 am on Saturday, February 15. At-door registrants MUST bring proof that they work exclusively for the defense of criminal cases.

Cancellations

Refunds, less a $30 processing fee, will be sent only for those cancellations received by February 3, 2003. No refunds will be sent after that date. Substitutions, however, are permitted.

Accommodations

The seminar is being hosted by both the Monterey DoubleTree and the Monterey Marriott hotels and each will be used for workshops throughout the weekend. To make reservations, call the DoubleTree at (831) 649-4511 or (800) 222-8733 or the Marriott at (800) 228-9290. Rooms at both the Marriott and DoubleTree will be held for seminar participants at the group rate of $155 per night for single/double occupancy. You must call by January 23, 2003 and mention California Attorneys for Criminal Justice in order to be eligible for this rate. However, even before the January 23 cutoff, there is no guarantee of room availability at the conference rate if the room blocks sell out. Both hotels sell out each year – so reserve early!

The Monterey Airport

If you intend to fly into the Monterey Airport, you are encouraged to make reservations as far in advance as possible. Several airlines service the airport, including American, United and Delta. A taxi from the Monterey Airport to the convention center costs approximately $12.

Parking

Guests of the DoubleTree or the Marriott will have their parking fees charged to their rooms with unlimited in-and-out access. Parking at the Marriott is $15 per day, valet only. DoubleTree parking is $13 per day for self parking or $15 per day for valet. For those staying elsewhere, public parking structures are available in the area surrounding the conference center for $5–$8 per day.
